

My perfect weekend Spiky Mike

The Funhouse Comedy Club boss, who presents an afternoon of comedy at the Splendour festival at Wollaton Park on Sunday, tells us why he's always out of the house either working or watching gigs. Except when Corrie's on - for a weekly dose of Blanche is a comedy legend.

The same goes for DVDs but my favourite comedian, Rhod Gilbert, is soon releasing his debut DVD, so I'll be getting a copy of that.

I'm not much of a cinema-goer either. The last film I saw was Borat, so I guess I might check out Sacha Baron Cohen's new one, Bruno.

As a DJ I'm a big music fan and still play a lot at home despite my work. I have no favourites. I'll listen to reggae, punk, ska, metal, classical, rock'n'roll... anything from Mozart to Slipknot.

If I order a take-away I'll usually go for a lamb rogan josh with mushroom pilau rice.

My favourite restaurant is Kayal, the South Indian restaurant in Hockley. It's outstanding. An original menu, wonderful service and lovely surroundings. When the day is done and I get the urge, I'll pick up the Bible. (Well, not really, but if my mum reads this she'll be proud).

For more about the Funhouse Comedy Club visit www.funhousecomedy.co.uk

For an interview with Simon Bligh who headlines The Comedy Stage at Splendour turn to Page 12.

Comedy legend Blanche in Coronation Street and, right, Sacha Baron Cohen as Bruno