

"One thing I love about Leicester is..."

Simon Calder

London, English travel writer, currently the travel editor for The Independent

"One thing I love about Leicester... is that it's now less than 70 minutes from London, meaning I can visit the National Space Centre, eat the Kerala Backwater cuisine at Kayal's and pay my respects to the father of travel, Thomas Cook, all in a fun day out."